First and foremost in the good work is the St. Vincent de Paul's Society, with George I. The funeral dry the eyes of widows and comfort the took place from St. Charles Borromeo's mon, followed by a special conference orphans when their natural protectors have been taken away. At the same time the Ancient Order of Hibernians has social features which endear it to its numbers. It inculcates the spirit of brotherly love and teaches lasting lessons on patriotism. Of course one must be a practical Catholic to become a member of this order. Never will he become less a Catholic for having belonged to it. Each of the four divisions have made increases in membership and in a financial way during the year now almost closed.

The Young Men's Institute is another organization of Catholics that must not be lost sight of in glancing over the year's events. Young men of sterling qualities from every parish are members of this order. Whether it be Trinity in the East, Mackin in the West or Satolli in the center of the city, all are working toward the same end: "For God and for country." Mackin Council owns its own club house, Trinity is erecting hers and it will not be long before the members of Satolli will begin to think about theirs, if they have not already thought about it. The Young Men's Institute in Louisville has kept many young men from going to perdition. It has afforded them legitimate places of amusement and has turned their energies into proper channels. It has room to grow. Each year young men leave school and are entitled to membership in the order. The young men are the hope and the bulwark of any nation.

The Knights of Columbus have also done good work in Louisville during the past year. Moreover they have expanded and lave assisted in forming councils both in and outside the State. Many of them are men of influence in commercial and State affairs. In this society they learn to know each other and to lend a helping hand to their bretheren. Louis- given the club house during the twelve ville Council now numbers nearly 500 members. Still there is room for it to grow. It will grow, too, because its officers are on the alert and know when and where to seek for recruits.

The Catholic Knights of America, a society practically founded in Louisville, has also made material increases during the year. The panic, if so you may call it, of the past year has been passed by and overcome. What with the Uniform Rank and the renewed efforts of the Central Committee, the Louisville branches of the C. K. of A. will be larger and more prosperous than ever next year. Closely allied with the last named organization is that of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, an organization whose very cradle was in this city, an organization which insured the lives of mothers as well as of fathers, and which since its incipiency has performed a glorious work. During the year 1905 every branch of this order has shown an appreciable increase. It should be fos-tered and encouraged as it deserves.

There are several organizations, too, of Catholic ladies who deserve to be considered. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians is one. The mbers of this organization have been ganization to be in splendid condition.

The ladies who comprise the membership of the auxiliary to Trinity Council, Y. M. Made by Villagers' to Attend I. also deserve consideration and appreciation. They have worked early and late as aids to the young men, and thus far their efforts have been crowned by

The Catholic Woman's Club also has made itself felt in more ways than one during the past year. Its membership is constantly growing and its scope is gradually extending. What its members have done toward providing comfortable quarters for girls and young women in straitened circumstances can not be conjectured.

The committees arranging for joint meeting of the three local councils announced that everything was in readiness for the night of Tuesday, Januaay 9.

The installation of officers will be conducted according to the new ritual next Tuesday evening and the impressive ceremonies will be followed by a smoker. A full attendance of the members is desired.

It was also announced that the Board of Grand Directors would meet at Mackin club house during February. The membership contest under Captains Lanahan and Farrell, which was to have closed January 1, has been extended to March 1. It is expected that the rival teams will put in their best licks during the next two months. Before the meeting adjourned the council gave a vote of thanks to Mrs. R. W. Galway for the efficient care she had years that she was in charge.

To their great gratification a mission has able auspices. Our good pastor, the Rev. Father William Gerdon, secured the eloquent and earnest missionary, the Rev. Father Vincent Trost, O. F. M., to conduct the mission, which continued eight days.

Although a majority of the congregation live from three to six miles from church they braved the biting winds, the downpour of rain, the flooded creeks and the tedious drives that they might give glory to God and peace to their hearts.

In his opening sermon Father Vincent said that Christ's mission on earth was to bring "Glory to God on high and peace to men of good will." He further stated that however eloquent his preaching might be, it would not bear the best fruits unless aided by the united prayers of the parish. A mission, he said, was a time of prayer, meditation, sacrifice and resolution. Father Vincent's eloquence was so great and his manner so earnest that several who came to scoff remained

In this, the diocese of Louisville, judging from the increase in the number of churches in this city and county alone, there has been quite a gratifying increase in Catholic fervor. At the close of 1904 there were thirty-two churches in the city of Louisville and county of Jefferson, and at the close of this year there are thirty-seven. Last year there were 169 124 are secular priests and fifty-nine are members of religious orders.

Aiding the Right Reverend Bishop and the Very Reverend Vicar General in administering the affairs of the diocese are seven deans, priests who have done long and valuable service. Living in religious orders, either as priests or brothers, there are 154 men, and as nuns and sisters 954 women.

During the year the priests of the diocese have performed 993 marriage ceremonies, baptized 3,956 children and officiated at the funeral rites of 1,519 persons. From this one can readily see that the Catholic population is steadily increasing, since the number of baptisms is considerably more than twice the number of the diocese taken from the census just during the life of Pope Leo XIII. for the completed is 104,621.

LAST HIBERNIAN MEETINGS OF YEAR

The members of Division 4 had one of their old-time "heart-to-heart" assemblies on Wednesday night. The Christmas spirit, the spirit of giving, prevailed and the great feature of the evening was the presentation of handsome gifts to the retiring President and Vice President.

It was the last meeting of the year and the retiring officers were all on hand when President John H. Hennessy's gavel fell. James Lyons and George Holland were reported on the sick list. After several matters of routine had been disposed of the members of the division voted in favor of the union meeting and joint installation of officers. They also voted a suitable sum for the entertainment that is to follow the installation ceremonies. William T. Meehan, of Division 2, came in during the meeting and was given a rousing welcome. After all the regular business had been disposed of Messrs. William J. Connelly. John J. Barry, Joseph P. McGinn and At the meeting of Trinity Council Harry Brady, members of a special comures are the most enjoyed.

He stepped to the front again and in another eloquent effort paid a tribute to the efficient services of Thomas Lynch, the retiring Vice President. He closed his effort by presenting Mr. Lynch with a handsome mahogany rocking chair. Mr. Lynch, like Mr. Hennessy, was surprised, but managed to make a brief sublime about the passing of the old year and the entrance of the But after all the old and the year are merely figures of speech. Yet we can not help thinking of the days of mirth and the days of pathos that have come to us during the past 365 days. Some of our friends, mayhap those nearest and dearest, have passed into eternity. Perchance some of those we considered our best friends have become exalted and, forgetting their friendships for us in their prosperity, look down upon us or neglect us altogether. While we can and ought to forgive those, we can not forget. It is part of the scheme of our salvation to learn by experience not to put all our trust in earthly friends. Yet this is a good old world. It has its sunshine and shadows, its tears and laughter. We enjoy the sunshine all the more after lowering clouds have threatened us. Possibly darkness may hover over you now. But remember the sun is always shining somewhere. Your day will come probably when least expected. Now is the time to make your good resolutions. PULL FOR OUR CITY.

During the year now drawing close to its end Louisville and her people have enjoyed unprecedented prosperity. It may be said that it has been the greatest year in her history, both from a commercial and building standpoint. The city has lots of room to grow, and she is growing. New interurban lines are not only putting Louisville in close contact with the outlying towns, at they are also extending her borders into hitherto impossible territory. Besides this new factories are springing up on every hand, and our merchants and manufacturers are entering upon new lines of business and are meeting with success. Our citizens are now working hand in hand to make the metropolis of Kentucky also the metropolis of the South. Louisville has had no serious labor troubles during the past year, an indication that our employers generally are fair and just to their employes. Neither has she had any serious business failures nor catastrophes involving the loss of many lives. In fact, Louisville is taking on the proportions and achieving the acumen of a great city, not in booms nor bounds, but normally, steadily.

At present the members of the Commercial Club and Board of Trade are at work planning a "home-coming" for next summer. It is intended to invite former residents of Louisville and Kentucky visit us and see what progress we have made as a city and State during their absence. This is a splendid method of advertising our city and bringing her advantages before the people of the country at large. Former Kentuckians are testament of a man is a reflex of his scattered through every State in the character. Undoubtedly this is the Union. worse than assassination. SEWERS BADLY NEEDED.

There is nothing Louisville needs worse than an improved sewerage system. The town has grown so rapidly that the sewers have become the city where sewers are most needed there are none at all. This condition is a menace to the health of every citizen, and in the interest of public welfare everybody should aid in bringing about a condition that will remely the matter as and special committees from the Commercial Club, Board of Trade and General Council have the matter under consideration now. Their present plan is the election or appointment of a non-partisan commission to supervise the construction of sewers and the expenditure of money that will have to be paid for them. This is as it should be. The sewers are for the benefit of Republicans as well as Democrats, and it is only fair and just that a non-partisan commission supervise the work. But the first and greatest work is to get the money.. To do this a bond issue will have to be voted upon by the people. Citizens who have regard for the health of their families will not hesitate to vote for the bond issue when they know that the money will be judiciously and honestly expended.

John M. Ryan received a visit from the stork at his home, 2841 West Chestnut street, on Christmas eve. Twin girls resulted. Grandpa John Ryan is so proud of the new babies that he will hardly look at a pump until next spring.

The stork played Santa Claus at the home of William J. Chawk, on Zane street, between Sixth and Seventh, Satnrday night, and left a baby boy. Will says he can play poker now, as he holds two pairs.

POPE'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

A special cablegram from Rome announces that preparations are now being made for the celebration of the golden jubilee or fiftieth anniversary of Pope Pius X., which event will take place in 1908. It is said that committees will be organized all over the world for the purpose of raising a sufficient sum of money to make his Holiness a present in keeping with the dignity of his position. The celebration, according to the Pope's wishes, will be of a strictly religious character.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

Louisville Council Kuights of Columbus will give its annual banquet at the Galt House on New Year's evening. It is estimated that at least 800 persons will sit down to the table-a larger number probably than ever attended a banquet in this city. The Knights will be accompanied by their lady friends and the banquet will be followed by addresses from learned and eloquent members.

SECURE NEW QUARTERS.

Columbus Council, Y. M. I, of Jeffersonville, has leased the second and third stories of the Becht building, 430 Spring street, for a hall and club room. New furniture will be purchased and installed at once and early in the new year the new club rooms will be ready for use. Columbus Council is only a few months old, but its members appear to be hus-

EUCHRE AND DANCE.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Council, Y. M. I., has arranged to give a euchre and dance at Trinity Hall, 718 East Gray street, on the evening of Wednesday, January 10. The members of the auxiliary always give pleasant entertainments and their first affair of the new year promises to eclipse all their former efforts.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Thomas J. McDonough, book-keeper at the County Jail, was painfully injured by the unexpected explosion of a revolver at his home, 1332 Twelfth street, Christmas night. The bullet passed through the index finger of the right hand. Mr. McDonough is resting as comfortably as possible, but he will be incapacitated for duty for several days to come.

DRAMATIC CLUB.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will meet Wednesday night, when the proposed dramatic club will be launched. At the same time a general meeting of Hibernians and their lady friends will be called for the purpose of organizing the new movement. A full attendance of the auxiliary members is earnestly desired.

CHARMING VISITORS.

Misses Rose and Tillie Brinker, of Richmond, Ind., are spending the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. George F. Schlafer, 431 Marret avenue. Miss Rose is a talented vocalist, and during her visit to Louisville she has been entertaining her friends with selections of good old Irish songs. Her rendition of "My Irish Molly O" is surely a treat. The young ladies will remain till some time in January and many social affairs are being arranged in their honor.

LOOKS GOOD.

St. Cecilia's Church Building Assoication held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday night. Encouraging reports from the various collectors were read. The Rev. Father A. J. Brady was present and delivered a pleasant address. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, George J. Butler; Vice-President, Charles S. Raidy; Secretary, William Hume; Treasurer, Daniel Cunniff. The same collectors will serve next year.

White tulle is a charming and modish naterial for a youthful evening frock. Silver and gold embroidery play an mportant part in the trimming of the new evening frocks. Fillets are worn with parted hair, and floral clusters in the coiffure are become ing exceedingly popular.

The rain coat makes an important and necessary feature of the up-to-date wardrobe and is quite as smart, quite as becoming and quite as tasteful as that of any other use.

Tuile, mousseline and chiffon have ost none of their prestige as evening gowns this season, but side by side with hem you will find superb brocades stiffened with threads of gold and silver, rich brocades and soft satins. A bodice made with a high girdle-one that is the same height all around-has the upper portion plaited or draped on the foundation lining. The draped girdle is then tacked lightly to the foundation lining around the top only, just below the line of the bust.

A wide gold braid makes a pretty separate girdle for a black gown. This braid comes very wide and can be easily arranged over a boned girdle frame to fit smoothly. These girdles fasten in the center back and the ends of the gold braid can be fringed to make a finish, or Sausages, Etc. they can be fastened with small loops of gold thread and a double row of rhine stone buttons.

Belts of broadcloth in the pale shades, such as pink, blue and Nile green, are worn with lace and net gowns in black, white and ecru. These belts are cut on folds over a light crinoline foundation; the top and lower edges are cut in rounded scallops and are finished with a cord covered with the material. The girdles fasten in the back with buttons covered with the same material and embroidered in white and gold.

The fashionable glove is of white, black or delicate shades of gray and tan. There will doubtless be efforts made to produce gloves of the color of the fashionable costume. The Meath County Council unanicil's resolution regarding the inadequacy of the provisions for higher education in Ireland, as well as resolutions calling for a reform of the Irish National Board and for the restoration of the grant for the teaching of the Irish language.

A remarkable figure has passed away at Ballynafeigh, Belfast, in the person of Hugh Finlay. He was the last survivor of that band of Ribbonmen arrested in '57 at McKay's tavern in Great Edward street, and who were subsequently tried for sedition—an incident of a truly stir-ring time which many a local Nationalist still recalls. Finlay was twenty-four years in the employment of the late Joe Biggar, M. P., and afterward in that of Sir Thomas Lipton in Glasgow, Liverpool, London and America.

James Grew, of the Queen's Hotel at Portadown, recently established a cider distilling plant in that town with the object of availing of the large supply of fruit in that vicinity. Grew purchased the entire plant and good will of the cider manufactory started a year ago in Drogheda by the Board of Agriculture.

The late John Pringle, the well known Clones butter merchant, left assets that approximate about $750,000, which will be divided among his next of kin, as he died without making a will. Deceased was a generous benefactor of charity during his lifetime, and a large number of deserving cases in Clones, who were the at the next meeting. recipients of weekly or monthly pensions
